PCT/JP2004/009605

Box No. VII Certain defects in the international application

The following defects in the form or contents of the international application have been noted:

Claim 8 is a dependent claim that cites any of claims 1 to 7, and although the hologram recording material of claims 1 to 7 is specified as the hologram recording material, of these claims, the invention of claim 7 is a method for manufacturing a hologram recording material. Directly limiting the specification items of an object called a hologram recording material by citing this invention of a method is not an appropriate way to achieve limitation and is defective as a way of citing claims.
